The six defendants charged in this case were netted as a result of Operation Black Flag, a large multi-agency investigation involving 26 defendants for their participation in conspiracies to commit murders and aggravated assaults on seven inmates in the Orange County Theo Lacy Facility jail at the direction of a violent Hispanic California Prison Gang (hereafter "Prison Gang").

Background of the Prison Gang

The Prison Gang operates throughout California and exercises control over "Southern Hispanic" inmates within the State prison and jail systems. Southern Hispanics are defined as any Hispanic person from Southern California. The Prison Gang also controls criminal street gangs, whose members pay drug-sale "taxes" to the Prison Gang as a sign of respect and as an assurance that they will be viewed as loyal to the Prison Gang if and when they are arrested and incarcerated in jail or state prison. The two primary functions of the Prison Gang are to incite fear in other inmates and control the prison drug trade. Drugs may be sold in prison at five to 10 times the price on the street.

BECKER, CHRIS*/ D'AMATO, ROBERT The two defendants, Placentia city officials, are both indicted for conflicts of interest for dealings involving Orange North-American Trade Rail Access Authority (ONTRAC). In June 2004, a group called the "Citizens for a Better Placentia" filed a complaint to the Orange County District Attorney's Office (OCDA). After an 18-month investigation by the OCDA Bureau of Investigation, the Orange County Grand Jury heard evidence from 30 witnesses from February to March 2006. Officer. D'Amato, the Placentia City Administrator, is accused of helping Becker participate in making two contracts in which Becker had a financial interest. The first contract, executed on April 4, 2000, created the ONTRAC, a joint power authority. The second contract engaged Christopher Becker as Executive Director of ONTRAC while he was employed concurrently as Placentia's Director of Public Works. ONTRAC was formed to facilitate a railroad lowering project in the City of Placentia. Originally budgeted at $300 million, projected costs to complete the railroad lowering plan burgeoned to over $500 million, before the lack of sufficient funding forced the abandonment of the project in 2005. Becker made more than $500,000 over his regular salary ($110,000) and benefits as Placentia's Director of Public Works through the formation of these contracts. During his employment as Executive Director of ONTRAC from April 2000 until the fall of 2005, Christopher Becker made more than $1.3 million. D'Amato is accused of helping in the formation of the two contracts knowing that Becker had a financial interest in both of the contracts. He is further accused of not investigating the possible conflict of interest even though he was informed of the issue within weeks of the formation of both contracts. Instead, D'Amato withheld information or misinformed other city officials regarding the conflict of interest and the legality of the contracts.

KNICK, DAVID MICHAEL/ STRONG, ROBERT DUSTON Circumstances of the 1980 Shooting In the evening of Nov. 6, 1980, Orange County Sheriff's Deputies Ira Essoe, then-40, and Greg Brown were on-duty in plain clothes in their unmarked patrol vehicle in the parking lot of a mall in Orange. Brown observed three men in the parking lot standing suspiciously in front of a raised hood of a yellow mustang. The three men, Knick, Strong, and David Vogel, 63, Riverside, then closed the hood and walked away. Minutes later the deputies again observed the three men standing by a black mustang with an open hood. Strong pointed a gun at Brown and demanded he put his firearm on the ground. Immediately after Brown placed his department-issued weapon on the ground, shots were fired hitting Essoe twice in the back, paralyzing him instantly. Brown took cover behind nearby parked cars. Strong and Knick	STAY ORDER	STAY ORDER	SCOTT SIMMONS	HOMICIDE•	10CF3130

took the deputies' firearms from the ground, stole their patrol car, and fled the scene. Vogel fled the scene on foot. Witnesses called 911. An hour later, Knick and Strong were located by California Highway Patrol and led officers on a high-speed chase. During the chase, the defendants crashed the deputies' patrol car while firing several shots at pursuing officers. Strong and Knick were arrested by police. The Orange Police Department (OPD) investigated the case.

Attempted Murder Convictions

The OCDA filed charges against Knick and Strong. At the time of the crime, there was insufficient evidence to prosecute Vogel. Strong was convicted by a jury on July 20, 1981. He was sentenced to 17 years and four months in state prison. He was released in January 1991 after serving approximately 10 years in state prison. Knick was convicted by a jury on Aug. 20, 1981. He was sentenced to 16 years and eight months in state prison. He was released in June 1990 after serving approximately 9 years in state prison.

Circumstances of the 2010 Charges

As a direct result of being shot in 1980, Essoe was paralyzed and suffered the next 30 years from severe medical complications that resulted in the amputation of both of his legs. He was bed-ridden, causing bed sores and subsequent blood disease. On Feb. 4, 2010, Essoe died due to sepsis of the blood, a blood disease caused by bed sores.

Subsequent medical examinations determined that Essoe's death was directly caused by the shooting in 1980. Under the law, there is no statute of limitations on murder if it can be proved beyond a reasonable doubt that a criminal act resulted in a death. In February 2010, OCDA and OPD began investigating Knick and Strong for the murder of Essoe. The OCDA filed murder charges against Strong and Knick yesterday, Nov. 18, 2010. They were arrested by OPD officers later that day.
